ARTICLE XIII: OFFICIAL STATISTICS

Base sets of statistics are maintained by the League Statistician. They are published in the newsletter at the Newsletter Editor's discretion. Existence of a category does NOT imply that an award will be given. All awards are listed in Article XIV of these Rules for Match Play.

A. Handicap Points-Per-Dart

1. A player's Handicap Points-Per-Dart (HPPD) Average is calculated from the 10 most recent Singles 301 and the 10 most recent Singles cricket games a player has played, provided that all games in each list of 10 most recent games are from the current and six previous League seasons. (Games from more than six seasons prior will be "retired" from the player's database of games.) The HPPD average is the average of the individual game PPD averages.

- a. Games must be properly recorded to count.
- b. Games included in the calculation may be from previous seasons.
- c. All games must be regular season games.
- d. If a player has not played ten or more of one or both singles categories, then the portion thereof will be used.

B. Season Points-Per-Dart Average

1. A player's Season Points-Per-Dart (SPPD) Average is calculated using all properly recorded regular season singles games from the given season. The SPPD average is the average of the individual game PPD averages.

2. A team's SPPD Average is calculated using all properly recorded regular season singles games from the given season.

C. All Star Point Average

1. Players are awarded All Stars Points (ASPs) for high-scoring individual turns. The current scale for awarding ASPs is as follows:

- 1.0 ASP == Ton to Ton20, 5 marks, 3 bulls
 - 1.5 ASP == Ton21 to Ton40, 6 or 7 marks, 4 bulls
 - 2.0 ASP == Ton41 to Ton80, 8 or 9 marks, 5 or 6 bulls
- The only exception is that all perfect throws, including the cricket turn of triple, double bull, double bull (7m), are awarded 2.0 ASPs.

- a. Tons only count when thrown during '01 games.
 - b. Marks and bulls only count when thrown during cricket games.
 - c. Only points or marks that are actually scored may count.
2. A player's ASP Average is equal to the number of ASPs accumulated divided by the number of games the player has thrown.
3. A team's ASP Average is equal to the number of ASPs accumulated divided by the number of player-games thrown for the team.

D. Singles Win Percentage
A player's Singles Win Percentage is calculated by taking the number of singles games a player has won and dividing it by the number of singles games a player has thrown. Only regular season games will be used in this calculation. (Forfeit wins and losses are not included in this calculation.)

E. Doubles Win Percentage
A player's Doubles Win Percentage is calculated by taking the number of doubles games a player has won and dividing it by the number of doubles games a player has thrown. Only regular season games will be used in this calculation. (Forfeit wins and losses are not included in this calculation.)

F. Overall Win Percentage
A player's Overall Win Percentage is calculated by taking the total number of games a player has won and dividing it by the total number of games a player has thrown. Only regular season games will be used in this calculation. (Forfeit wins and losses are not included in this calculation.)

G. Rookie of the Season
This category is based on Season PPD Average. To be eligible, a player must be eligible in the Season Points-Per-Dart Average category and may not have thrown previously in this or any other organized dart league. The proper determination of leaders in this category is based upon the assumption of honesty among new players in the League.
